New Volunteer program connects citizens to local government

LITTLETON, CO --- Volunteer Connections, Arapahoe County's new volunteer program, invites volunteers to strengthen and enhance the services the county provides to its residents. Volunteer Connections offers a unique opportunity for citizens to connect to county government by supporting fellow neighbors through various county programs and services.

Through Volunteer Connections, volunteers receive specific training and gain professional development and career experience. Volunteers also gain valuable experience in local government while feeling the joy of putting more services in the hands of residents and contributing to the success of their very own community.

From specialized training to initiating new services for members of the community, there are plenty of opportunities to get involved. From the long-term commitment in a custom position to one-time activities, anyone can help no matter what their schedule. Some of the activities available include: working with the legal system, older adults and youth; partnership development; horticulture; transportation; minor handy home and yard work; translators and phone pals; ambassadors; veterans services officers (must be a U.S. veteran); and events and FUN-raising.

To get involved with your local government and help create a stronger Arapahoe County by joining Volunteer Connections, call Val Purser at 303-738-7938.
